By contributing to The Food Trust through the Educational Improvement Tax Credit (EITC) program, businesses can receive significant tax savings while supporting The Food Trust's work to help our region's youth grow up healthy and strong!

What is the Educational Improvement Tax Credit?

The Educational Improvement Tax Credit (EITC) program, administered by the Pennsylvania Department of Community and Economic Development (DCED), enables businesses to receive a generous tax credit for donations made to eligible nonprofit Educational Improvement Organizations, such as The Food Trust, that provide innovative educational programs in local schools. Through the EITC program, a two-year commitment can earn your company tax credits equal to 90% of your contribution, and a one-year commitment will earn tax credits equal to 75% of your contribution — up to a maximum of $750,000 per taxable year.

Why The Food Trust?

Since 1992, The Food Trust has worked to ensure delicious, nutritious food for all. The Food Trust's EITC-approved program — the Children and Youth Nutrition Education Initiative — is helping our region's children grow up healthy and strong.

The Young Children's Nutrition Education Initiative encourages young children in grades K-8 to develop an early understanding of healthy diets and nutritious foods. The program integrates nutrition education into the regular school curriculum and engages youngsters in a variety of activities, such as field trips to local farms, school or classroom gardening, and healthy cooking in the classroom. We currently work with public schools in Philadelphia, Norristown and Reading.
